

Raud Hampton

Trainer, The ACT Group

2 Years

The foundation for Raud's life was laid with his father in Ohio. His dad formed his mechanical aptitude to see how things worked and how to repair them. In the process, he learned the basic theory for air conditioning, electronics, refrigeration, plumbing and mechanical engineering. His dad was the epitome of honesty and integrity in everything he did and it was through his dad that Raud learned the valuable lesson that he could do anything in life he wanted to if he was willing to work hard and give 110%.

In 1981 he purchased Kachina Archery Center, a profitable business with potential to grow. Raud promoted his business by appearing on local radio programs, making presentations for school assemblies, performing demonstrations for various organizations and agencies. It was through these appearances that he learned the necessary skills to be a good teacher, speaker and trainer.

Raud will tell you that his greatest accomplishment is his three beautiful daughters. Due to a noncompete clause when he sold the business he had to go into another field. Raud became a Residential Real Estate Appraiser and remained in this field for approximately 30 years. During the time he owned his own company, he learned the skills required for running a successful business. The down-turn in the economy and changes in Government regulations influenced him to seek a different career path. Luckily for him, he had good friends who had been in the HVAC business their whole lives and they inspired him to look into this field as a career.

Mark Gaylor convinced Raud to enrolled in the Act Group Trane Boot Camp. The training Mark and the Act Group provided, allowed him to be successful in the HVAC industry for many years. Now Raud is ready to teach those same skills to you. Are you ready?
